Noel provides clients a unique perspective on the legislative process, having previously served in the Missouri State House. He had the privilege of representing the residents of Independence in the Missouri General Assembly, serving the 52nd District and 29th District, where he served as Chairman of the Small Business Committee and a special Medicaid Committee.

In all of his elected positions, he successfully worked across the aisle to help improve the lives of his constituents and their families. The St. Louis Business Journal recognized Noel for his tireless work and commitment to getting the job done. And The Missouri Times recognized Noel as “an effective legislator mostly by building relationships and working across the aisle. He and his family have called Independence home for more than 25 years. Noel has also led an energy advocacy group and has been a small business owner.

In early 2017, Noel joined Statehouse Strategies, which later became HBS Missouri, lobbying on behalf of clients including the Missouri Cable Telecommunications Association (MCTA) and continues to successfully advocate for in his current role at HBS.

Noel received a bachelor’s degree in Social Science, with a concentration in Political Science, from Graceland University.
